LOGO USAGE AND GUIDELINES

2026

logos and fonts

The next pages take a look at the logos that are a direct representation of Ferrari.

You are not permitted to use any of Ferrari's official logos anywhere. That is what you have your Ferrari Club of America logo for.

The official Ferrari font – Ferrari Sans – on the other hand, is permitted and will be useful when creating content consistent with Ferrari's standards. This font family is available upon request to your director or magazine editor, or via this link:

This is the Ferrari cavallino.

It embodies the soul and spirit of the brand and its use is regulated by strict rules. It is recognized as a symbol of luxury and exclusivity.

This is the Ferrari racing shield.

It embodies the history of the brand and its epic dimension. Being directly linked to the racing activities, it is the most visible and recognized Ferrari logo. It's the official Scuderia Ferrari team logo.

This is the Ferrari corporate trademark.

It is used for all company core products and parts of the company tied to the GT business.

This is the Ferrari 'long F' logotype.

Ferrari

The most rational way to show the brand, it is a signature for Ferrari. Usually it is a stand alone logo, in rare cases is used in combination with the cavallino.

This is the logo for the Ferrari Club of America.

It is your official logo and its the one that you can use in your content. You are never permitted to use any of the logos shown at left without contacting the FCA national office who will request written permission from Ferrari.

You are encouraged to add your area's branding below the Ferrari Club of America's official logo as these two examples show.

Take pride in being part of Ferrari's global community by utilizing your new logo instead of a localized unbranded logo.

Left is a small example of the other Ferrari club logos in use within your global family.
